

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

THIS book has been prepared with the conviction that the primary function of Latin Composition in secondary schools is to extend and strengthen the pupil's knowledge of Latin grammar, and that this function is best fulfilled by means of a systematic presentation of the syntactical principles of the language. The following Lessons, accordingly, are devoted mainly to exercises in applying the principles of the various case and mood constructions recognized in our Latin grammars. But in order that the writing of continuous discourse may not be neglected, passages of simple English narrative, involving the principles covered in the previous exercises, are frequently introduced.

The illustrative examples given at the beginning of each lesson have been drawn with great care from Latin literature, — mainly from Cicero's speeches. The English sentences set for translation into Latin have also, in most cases, been suggested by passages occurring in the works of classical writers. In the matter of hidden quantities I have followed the marking of my Appendix and of the fourth edition of my Latin Grammar.

Grateful acknowledgment is here made for valuable assistance and suggestions received from friends.

2. Rogō, inquire, besides neuter pronouns and adjectives, admits only sententiā as accusative of the thing.

3. Doceō may take an infinitive in place of the accusative of the thing, as tē doceō sentīre, I teach you to perceive. The compound ēdoceō is the only verb of teaching that is freely used in the passive.

LESSON VII.

GRAMMATICAL REFERENCES.

1. Accusative of Time and Space. 181. 1; A. & G. 240. e; H. 379.
2. Accusative of Limit of Motion. 182. 1-4; A. & G. 258.
2. a, b, Notes 1-3; H. 380. I, II. 1, 2.

Remarks.

1. Id temporis, id aetātis, at that time, and id genus, of that kind, were never frequently employed by Latin writers in good prose. To say at that time, use eō tempore (230; A. & G. 256. 1; H. 429); of that kind, ējus modī (203; A. & G. 215. a; H. 419. II).

2. Observe that the accusative of the part affected (variously designated as Greek Accusative, Synecdochical Accusative, and Accusative of Specification) is regularly confined to poetry; such expressions as Virgil's ōs umerōsque deō similis should not be taken as models for prose writing. The Ablative of Specification (226; A. & G. 253; H. 424) is the proper case to denote this relation.

3. A favorite way of saying so many years old, was by means of the phrase annōs nātus, as, sexāgintā annōs nātus, sixty years old, literally born sixty years.

4. To denote duration for a small number of days or years it is customary to use biduum, triduum, quadriduum, two days, three days, four days; and biennium, triennium, quadriennium, two years, three years, four years.

envied;	envied;
eī invidētur, he is en-	eīs invidētur, they are envied.
vid;

Remarks.

1. Persuādeō and noceō, besides the dative of the person, may take the Accusative of Result Produced. This construction, however, is confined to narrow limits; the chief accusatives so used are hōc, illud, id, quod, quid (interrogative and indefinite), aliquid, nihil. Examples are:

hōc Anaximandrō nōn persuāsit, he did not persuade Anaximander to this effect.

quid mihi istius inimicitiae nocēbunt, what harm will that fellow's hostility do me?

2. In the passive construction of these verbs the accusative of the thing is retained, e.g.

hōc ipsis Siculis persuāsum est, the Sicilians themselves were persuaded to this effect.

3. With mittō and scribō one may use either the accusative with ad or the dative, according as the idea of motion is or is not predominant. Thus either mihi or ad mē scripsisti, you wrote to me.

Cicero's Oration for Roscius of Ameria.

At the age of twenty-six years Cicero undertook the case of Roscius of Ameria, whose father, a wealthy man, had been murdered. This circumstance inspired in Chrysogonus, a freedman of Sulla, the hope of (getting)<sup>1</sup> the property. Accordingly he<sup>2</sup> accused the son; but<sup>3</sup> Cicero yielded neither to fear nor threats, and after a vigorous defence acquitted<sup>4</sup> Roscius of<sup>5</sup> this charge.

Suggestions on the Exercise.

1. Words in parenthesis are not to be translated.

Remarks.

1. For the difference between the Dative of Possession and the Possessive Genitive, see Lesson XI, Remark 3.

2. The Dative of Possession is mainly used with reference to material possessions; the possession of mental qualities is more frequently indicated in other ways.

3. With nōmen est the name is very rarely attracted into the Dative in Cicero's writings, though quite commonly so attracted in later authors. Either construction, therefore, is quite idiomatic.

4. The chief verbs that take a Dative of Purpose besides sum are: relinquō, dēligō, dicō, mittō, veniō, habēō, dūcō.

5. Among the commonest Datives of Purpose used with esse are: auxiliō, cūrae, dētrimentō, fraudi, lucrō, salūtī, impedimentō, odiō, praesidiō.

H. 396. I.
4. Subjective Genitive. 199; A. & G. 214; H. 396. II.

11. studium virtūtis, the pursuit of virtue.
12. memoria bene factōrum, the recollection of good deeds,
lit. of things well done.

Remarks.

1. Causā is much commoner than grātiā in the sense on account of, for the sake of.

2. The Objective Genitive occurs most frequently in combination with nouns derived from verbs that govern the accusative; yet by an extension of usage we sometimes find the genitive used with nouns derived from verbs that govern other cases, e.g. cōnsuētūdō hominum, intercourse with men (cf. cōnsuēscere cum hominibus, to associate with men); excessus vitæ, departure from life (cf. excedere ē vitā, to depart from life).

3. The Genitive of Possession, as compared with the Dative of Possessor, gives emphasis to the possessor; the Dative emphasizes rather the fact of possession, e.g. hortus mei patris est, the garden is my father's; mihi hortus est, I possess a garden.

2. Note that the adjectives most frequently employed in connection with a genitive to denote quality are adjectives of amount (e.g. māgnus, māximus, summus, tantus, and numerals); ējus, hūjus, etc., in combination with modī, also occur frequently.

This slave he had given to Roscius, who was teaching him the art of acting,<sup>3</sup> having promised his master half of all his earnings.<sup>4</sup> But by chance the slave was murdered, and his master now demanded of Roscius fifty thousand sesterces on account of that loss.

 16. haec reminiscitur, he remembers this.
 17. multa memini, I remember many things.

Remarks.

1. While memini and obliviscor take either the accusative or the genitive of the thing remembered or forgotten, yet in Cicero the genitive is much the commoner construction; but

2. Note that neuter pronouns (as haec, illa, ea, ista, quae, etc.) and adjectives used substantively (as multa, pauca, omnia) regularly stand in the accusative.

3. Recordor almost invariably takes the accusative; a genitive with this verb is extremely rare.

4. Reminisci is rarely used, especially with an object denoting a person; but reminiscēns and reminiscendī regularly supply the missing participle and gerund of memini.

Remarks.

1. Moneō in the best period is not construed with the genitive.

2. In Cicero egeō (with perhaps a single exception) is followed by the ablative of the thing needed; indigeō at all periods regularly takes the genitive.

3. In Cicero at least, — and probably also generally, — interest is much more commonly used than rēfert.

2) The Ablative of Source is accompanied by the preposition ex when the source is indicated by a pronoun.

3) When a person is viewed not as an independent agent, but rather as one through whose instrumentality something is done, this relation is expressed by per with the accusative.

The Career of Verres.

Gaius Verres was first quaestor, then praetor urbanus.<sup>1</sup> Afterwards he went as pro-praetor to Sicily, where he remained for nearly three years. During<sup>2</sup> all this time he was practising the most shameful crime on<sup>3</sup> the provincials. No one was exempt from his avarice, his cruelty, and his insults. The rich he plundered of money and works of art, the people he burdened with heavy imposts. The Sicilians, however, finally brought him to trial, and drove him into exile.

Remarks.

1. Cicero in his Orations (and probably also in his other works) confines the use of the Ablative of Comparison mainly to negative sentences and interrogative sentences implying a negative. No other writer, however, observes so strict a canon, and even in Cicero there is quite a percentage of exceptions. The ablative must be used in case of relative pronouns, i.e. always quō, quibus, — not quam quī. On the other hand, when the comparative is an attributive modifier of a noun in an oblique case, quam is used, and the proper form of the verb esse is expressed, as verba Varrōnis hominis doctiōris quam fuit Claudius, the words of Varro, a more learned man than Claudius.

2. Note that ūtor may take a second ablative (either noun or adjective) in the predicate relation, as quō duce ūtēmur, whom shall we employ as leader? eō placidō ūtēris, you will find (lit. use) him tranquil. The second ablative here bears the same relation to the first as a predicate accusative to the direct object.

Cicero's Speeches against Verres.

After this had been delivered,<sup>3</sup> overwhelmed by the evidence Cicero had collected and by the witnesses which he had summoned to Syracuse from all parts of Sicily, Verres withdrew of his own accord into exile.

The remaining<sup>4</sup> five speeches Cicero wrote out and called Actio Secunda.

Suggestions on the Exercise.

1. In Latin, 'by horse.'
2. See Lesson XII, Example 4.
3. Use the ablative absolute, hæc habitâ, lit. this having been delivered.
4. Use reliquus.

LESSON XVIII.

15. milītēs erant bonō animō, the soldiers were of good courage.

Remarks.

1. The Ablative of Quality primarily designates qualities which are more or less transitory. The observation sometimes made that the genitive denotes internal qualities, and the ablative external ones, is not sufficiently exact. In the phrase hortātur ut bonō animō sint, he urges them to be of good courage, the quality is internal: yet the genitive could not here be used; for while the quality is internal it is transitory. The theoretical distinction between the Genitive of Quality and the Ablative of Quality is that the genitive denotes permanent, the ablative transitory qualities. Yet where ambiguity would not result the ablative may be used to denote a permanent quality. Thus one may say vir summæ virtūtis or summā virtūte, a man of the highest character.

In all numerical designations of weight, dimension, etc., the genitive is used.

Catiline.

Lucius Sergius Catiline was descended from an old patrician family. His early youth<sup>1</sup> and young manhood<sup>2</sup> were stained with every vice and crime. He not only killed his brother-in-law,<sup>3</sup> Quintus Caecilius, but, as the story went,<sup>4</sup> had murdered his own wife and son. Nevertheless in the consulship of Lucius Metellus and<sup>5</sup> Quintus Marcius he was chosen praetor, and two years afterwards returned to Rome from Africa and sought the consulship.

Suggestions on the Exercise.

1. early youth : adulēscientia, ae, f.

LESSON XXI.

GRAMMATICAL REFERENCES.

1. Ablative of Time at Which. 230. 1-3; A. & G. 256 and 1; H. 429.
2. Ablative of Time within Which. 231; A. & G. 256. 1 and a; 259. a; H. 429. 1 and footnote 1.
3. Roman Dates. 371, 372; A. & G. 376; H. 641-644.

EXAMPLES.

1. Castoris aedēs eōdem annō Īdibus Quīntīlibus dēdicāta est, the temple of Castor was dedicated in the same year, on the Ides of July.
2. vōta erat Latīnō bellō, it had been vowed in the Latin War.

12. ante diem octāvum Īdūs Novembrēs, on the 6th of November, lit. on the eighth day before the Ides (strictly the seventh day before the Ides, which were the 13th).

Remarks.

1. Observe that words not primarily denoting a period of time, as pāx, peace, bellum, war, commonly require the preposition in to denote time at which, unless they are accompanied by a modifier (adjective, demonstrative, or genitive). Thus in bellō, in war, but primō bellō Pūnicō, in the First Punic War.

2. In bellō, in war, is to be distinguished in meaning and use from belli. The former phrase is essentially temporal in meaning, — in time of war, while belli is rather local, and means in the field; it occurs almost exclusively in combination with domi, at home, as domi bel-lique, at home and in the field.

3. To denote time within which, in the course of which, the preposition in is almost invariably employed when the clause contains a distributive numeral (bis, trīni; ter, terni) or saepe.

4. Biduō, trīduō, quadriduō, and bienniō, trienniō, quadrienniō, are regularly used instead of duōbus diēbus, duōbus annis, etc. Compare Lesson VII, Remark 4.

1. Sui is regularly employed like mei and tui as an Objective Genitive. To indicate the whole of which a part is taken the Latin may use either ex sē or suorum, e.g. multōs ex sē or multōs suorum misērunt, they sent many of their own number.
 2. Observe that in such expressions as inter sē amant, they love each other, no direct object is expressed.

The Second and Third Orations against Catiline.

Cicero's second oration against Catiline was delivered before the people in the Forum. In this the consul congratulated the citizens on<sup>1</sup> Catiline's departure, and promised his own watchfulness and care for the future.<sup>2</sup> The Senate then declared Catiline and Manlius enemies of the state. A little after,<sup>3</sup> through the medium of the Allobroges, Cicero discovered evidence against those accomplices of Catiline who were still in the city. This he set forth in his third speech, which was likewise<sup>4</sup> delivered before the people.

14. nec quā ērumperet prohibērī poterat, nor could he be prevented from rushing forth.

Remarks.

1. Licet and oportet take either the infinitive or the subjunctive without ut, but the infinitive is the commoner construction, especially with licet; necesse est freely admits either construction.

2. Cōstituō, when denoting another act of the same subject, more commonly takes an infinitive than an ut-clause.

3. Prohibeō is much more commonly construed with an infinitive than with a Substantive Clause introduced by nē, quō minus, or quā, e.g. sī qui tē introire prohibuerit, if any one should prevent your entering. In Cicero and Caesar prohibeō never occurs followed by a quā-clause, though it may take quō minus.

4. Impediō quā does not occur in Cicero's speeches or philosophical works, though impediō quō minus is frequent.

5. In general, after negative expressions of hindering quō minus is often used in preference to quā.

Notes on the Examples.

1) Note the absence of ut, as regularly after visne, velim, vellem.

2) Velim is potential subjunctive; the present implies that the wish contained in the object clause is one capable of realization.

3) Vellem is likewise a potential subjunctive; the imperfect implies regret at the unreality of the object clause.

4) Note the use of nō nōn (instead of ut) after a main clause containing a negative.

Cicero's Speech on Pompey's Commission.

When<sup>4</sup> the tribune Manilius had introduced a bill that Pompey be placed in command of the war against Mithridates,<sup>5</sup> the aristocrats stoutly opposed (him), some on the ground that absolute power ought not to be conferred<sup>6</sup> on a single man, others on the ground that all hope ought not to be risked<sup>6</sup> in one (person). But Cicero spoke earnestly in behalf of this bill; he enumerated Pompey's many excellent qualities<sup>7</sup> and previous exploits with so great eloquence and skill that he<sup>8</sup> was sent as absolute commander against Mithridates.

9. videor ostendisse quālēs deī essent, I seem to have shown of what nature the gods are. (Direct: ostendī.)

Remarks.

1. Note that a dependent perfect infinitive is treated as an historical tense whenever, if resolved into an equivalent indicative, it would be historical. See the last example above.

2. Note that for the sake of vividness a present tense of the direct discourse is not infrequently retained in the indirect after an historical tense. This is called repraesentātiō, 'a bringing back to the present.'

Cicero On Old Age.

The essay<sup>3</sup> On Old Age was written a little after the assassination of Julius Caesar. In this work Cicero represents Scipio and Laelius asking Cato the Elder in what way he bears the burdens of old age so easily.

Cato replies that old age is wrongly blamed, that its ills lie<sup>4</sup> in the character not in the time of life<sup>5</sup>, and that he himself has not only not found old age wretched, but even easy and pleasant.

The Death of Cicero.

Cicero was at his Tusculan villa with his brother Quintus when he heard that he had been proscribed by the triumvirs, and at once decided to set out for Astura. After he had twice embarked and twice returned to land, he came to his villa at Formiae. While he was staying here, he was informed that soldiers were approaching. Even then he might have escaped<sup>1</sup> had he not been betrayed by a man whom he had once defended. When the soldiers had come up, he made no resistance<sup>2</sup> and was quickly slain. His head and hands were taken to Antony at Rome and fastened to the Rostra.

Suggestions on the Exercise.

1. might have escaped: see Lesson XLI, Rem. 1.
2. made no resistance: nihil resistēbat.

LESSON XLIII.

PARTICIPLES.

GRAMMATICAL REFERENCES.

1. Tenses of the Participle. 336. 1-5; A. & G. 290 and b; H. 550 and N. 1.
2. Use of Participles. 337. 1-3, 7, a, b, 1), 2); A. & G. 291; 292, and a, c; 294 and a, b, d; H. 549. 1-5 and N. 2; 535. I. 4.

EXAMPLES.

1. audiō tē loquentem, I hear you as you speak.

18. eum jugulandum vōbīs trādiderunt, they handed him over to you to be put to death.

Remarks.

1. Note that the perfect passive participle is often equivalent to a co-ordinate clause in English; as, C. Servilius Ahāla Sp. Maellum occupātum interēmit, Gaius Servilius Ahala surprised and slew Spurius Maellius, lit. slew him having been surprised.

2. Observe that the present active participle is used much less freely in Latin than in English. We employ it somewhat loosely to denote an act prior to that of the verb with which it is connected; as, 'Finding no means of escape, he surrendered.' Here the finding is anterior to the surrender. In such cases the Latin would employ some other form of expression; in that language the present participle is strictly limited to the expression of acts contemporary with the action of the main verb.

14. pācem petītum ōrātōrēs mittunt, they send envoys to ask for peace.
15. mīrābile audītū, wonderful to hear!

Notes on the Examples.

- 1) The Gerundive Construction could not be used here; plūrium habendōrum could be masculine as well as neuter, and would thus occasion ambiguity.
- 2) Note that fruor, like the other deponents governing the ablative, admits the gerundive construction.
- 3) Cōservandī agrees merely in form with suī and vestri; in sense it is plural.

Remarks.

1. The dative of the gerund and of the gerundive are both rare in Ciceronian Latin; consequently the construction, though common later, is hardly to be imitated by the beginner in Latin writing.

The Character of Caesar.

It is difficult to form a correct judgment<sup>1</sup> concerning Caesar's character.<sup>2</sup> It is admitted<sup>3</sup> that in early life<sup>4</sup> he was dissolute, and that afterwards he showed no regard<sup>5</sup> for justice and the laws. Yet he was (a man) of exceptional foresight, and saw not only from what evils the state was suffering but also by what means these could be checked. Yet on account of his premature death we cannot say how successfully he would have organized <sup>6</sup> the government,<sup>7</sup> if he had lived.

Suggestions on the Exercise.

1. form a correct judgment : rēctē iūdicāre.
2. character : ingenium.
3. it is admitted : cōstat.
4. in early life : express by adulēscēns in agreement with the subject of the dependent infinitive.
5. showed no regard : 'to show no regard' is in Latin nōn ratiō-nem habēre, construed with a gen. of the thing.
6. would have organized : see 322. b.
7. government : rēs pūblica.

The Foundations of Latin.

A book for beginners. By Professor CHARLES E. BENNETT, of Cornell University. 12mo, cloth, 231 pages. Price, 90 cents.

THIS book differs materially from most of the present manuals for beginners in Latin. Its method is, first, to present the forms of inflection, and then to develop the principles of syntax, following in both cases, so far as possible, the usual order of the Latin grammars. Such rules of syntax as are needed for reading and writing simple sentences are given in the earliest lessons, so that the pupil has constant drill on the forms while acquiring them; but the systematic study of general syntax is postponed till the pupil shall have mastered the forms and shall be in a position to apply the rules.

The vocabulary of the Exercises consists of the 750 words in most frequent use by Cæsar and Nepos, and will serve equally well as an introduction to either author. The Latin sentences are for the most part taken directly from Cæsar's Commentaries, with such slight changes as may be needed to adapt them to the pupil's advancement.

The Exercises are followed by eighteen pages of easy and interesting selections for reading.

Frederic T. Farnsworth, Sanborn Seminary, Kingston, N.H.: I agree with the author in his preface that it is better to bring together "things that naturally belong together," and to have the first-year book follow substantially the order and form of the grammar. The later and fuller study of the grammar itself is greatly facilitated by a systematic arrangement such as that followed in this book.

F. P. Donnelly, S.J., College of the Holy Cross, Worcester, Mass.: The book has been appropriately named. I have never seen in one volume so complete a presentation of all that is necessary for a beginner in Latin.

James Heard, Academy, Summit, N.J.: I commend the work most heartily. It marks a return to the common-sense method of teaching Latin to beginners, and is a thoroughly practical book. I do not hesitate to place it in the front rank of books of its class.

C. K. Bartholomew, English and Classical School, Cincinnati, Ohio: We are well pleased with The Foundations of Latin now on trial.

Frank D. Haddock, Superintendent, Holland, Mich.: I am using Bennett's Foundations of Latin with great satisfaction.

A Junior Latin Book.

With Notes, Exercises, and Vocabulary, by Professors JOHN C. ROLFE and WALTER DENNISON, of the University of Michigan. 12mo, half leather, 498 pages. Price, $1.25.

THIS book will appeal most forcibly both to those teachers who are accustomed to begin the course in Latin Reading with the difficult Gallic War, and to those who prefer to prepare the way to Cæsar by the use of some easier text. To the former it offers a book that can be begun long before their classes can read Cæsar—a distinct economy of time. To the latter it gives in a single carefully graded volume the varied and profitable material that has hitherto been available only by the purchase of several text-books—a distinct economy of means.

The text consists of Fables, Stories of Roman History based on Eutropius and Livy, extracts from Viri Romæ, seven Lives of Nepos, and Books I. and II. of the Gallic War. The book also contains exercises for translation into Latin, based on the text, and many good maps and plans.

J. C. Kirtland, Jr., Phillips Academy, Exeter, N.H.: We are using Rolfe and Dennison's Junior Latin Book with the class which began the study of Latin last September. The Roman history especially appealed to us, and we are not surprised to find by experience that it furnishes most satisfactory material for first reading.

J. Edmund Barss, Hotchkiss School, Lakeville, Conn.: The selections are, it seems to me, well adapted to provide a substitute for the traditional four Books of Cæsar. It is an admirably common-sense text-book.

J. R. L. Johnson, Piedmont Academy, Gordonsville, Va.: It is one of the most important contributions to the study of Latin which has appeared for years, and one which must inevitably attract the interest of all teachers, as it is admirably suited for the purposes for which it is intended.

Nathan B. Coy, Principal of Cutler Academy, Colorado Springs, Col.: After giving the Junior Latin Book careful inspection, I do not hesitate to pronounce it the very best book for second-year Latin with which I have any acquaintance.

Capt. C. W. New, St. John's Military Academy, Delafield, Wis.: I anticipate good results from the use of the Junior Latin Book. It is fitted for its purpose exactly, and forms a good substitute for four long Books of Cæsar.

Virgil's Aeneid, Books I-VI, VIII, IX, and portions of the remaining books.

With Notes, Vocabulary, Map, Illustrations. Edited by DAVID Y. COMSTOCK, Principal of St. Johnsbury Academy, Vt. 12mo, half leather, 567 pages. Price, $1.40.

THIS school edition of the Aeneid is designed to furnish a helpful guide to the intelligent reading of the poem. It aims throughout to render all requisite aid to the pupil of average ability and preparation.

The Introduction contains a short outline of classical mythology, a brief presentation of the principles of prosody, suggestions, as to the translation of Latin poetry, and explanation and illustration of grammatical and rhetorical figures.

The Text contains Books I-VI, VIII, IX, and brief selections from the other Books, thus enabling the student to secure a connected idea of the story of the Aeneid as a whole.

The Notes give aid of the right sort, in right measure, and at the right time. They avoid prolixity, dulness, and obscurity, and assume neither too much nor too little knowledge on the part of the student.

F. W. Atkinson, Principal of High School, Springfield, Mass.: I like the notes particularly well: they show a good deal of common sense, to say nothing of scholarship.

D. W. Lothman, Central High School, Cleveland, O.: I have examined with some care Comstock's Virgil, and I am pleased to say that I regard it as an excellent edition. The sections which have been added from the last Books of the Aeneid furnish excellent material for sight reading. . . . But the real merit of the book lies in the notes, which are compact and to the point, and ought to do much to get both pupils and teachers away from the usual stereotyped "school-boy translation" to real English.

W. P. Cope, Principal of High School, Hamilton, O.: I have examined it carefully, and I like it better than any other edition that I have seen. It is written to assist the pupil and not to display the learning of the author. . . . In short, I think Comstock's Virgil an ideal text-book.

Journal of Pedagogy, December, 1896: Altogether this edition by Mr. Comstock is one of the most satisfactory that has appeared in this country.

A Latin Grammar.

By Professor CHARLES E. BENNETT, Cornell University. 12mo, cloth, 282 pages. Price, 80 cents.

IN this book the essential facts of Latin Grammar are presented within the smallest compass consistent with high scholarly standards. It covers not only the work of the preparatory school, but also that of the required courses in college and university. By omitting rare forms and syntactical usages found only in ante-classical and post-classical Latin, and by relegating to an Appendix theoretical and historical questions, it has been found possible to treat the subject with entire adequacy in the compass of 250 pages exclusive of Indexes. In the German schools, books of this scope fully meet the exacting demands of the entire gymnasial course, and those who have tried Bennett's Grammar find that they are materially helped by being relieved of the mass of useless and irrelevant matter which forms the bulk of the older grammars. All Latin texts for reading in secondary schools, recently issued, contain references in the notes to Bennett's Latin Grammar.

Professor William A. Houghton, Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Maine:

The Grammar proper is admirably adapted to its purpose in its clearness of arrangement and classification, and in its simplicity and precision of statement, giving definitely just what the pupil must know, and not crowding the page with a mass of matter that too often disheartens the young student instead of helping him. I trust it will come into general use, for I think for the reasons just given, and because of its moderate compass and attractive appearance, students are likely to get more practical grammatical knowledge out of it than they generally do from the larger grammars.

John F. Peck, Oberlin Academy, Oberlin, Ohio: Bennett's Latin Grammar was adopted as a text-book in Oberlin Academy in 1897. It is proving itself a very satisfactory text-book and increasingly popular. The teachers of Latin in Oberlin Academy are thoroughly satisfied with the book and find it exceedingly helpful in their work.

The Critic, Feb. 29, 1896. The book is a marvel of condensed, yet clear and forcible, statement. The ground covered in the treatment of forms and syntax is adequate for ordinary school work and for the use of freshmen and sophomores in college.
